

GIFT #FORGOOD

Social Enterprise Gift Guide

Every time you purchase a gift, consider buying from a social enterprise or community organisation to give the extra gift of social impact.

Products from Westpac Foundation's community partners are not only unique and environmentally mindful, they also help create jobs and training opportunities for people overcoming barriers to work.

So, join conscious consumers across Australia and gift #forgood.

 Foundation

Esther from ethical fashion label The Social Outfit, a Sydney-based social enterprise that provides training and jobs for people from refugee and new migrant communities in clothing production, retail, design and marketing. Not only does The Social Outfit create opportunities and financial empowerment for people facing barriers to work, their quality and unique fashion tells a human story. Visit the store in Newtown, NSW, or shop online.

What is a social enterprise?

Social enterprises are an innovative type of business that exist to create a fairer and more sustainable world.

They operate in all sectors of the community from retail to catering and hospitality, and what makes them unique is that they exist to create impact through trade.

Employees of Green Connect's op shop in the Illawarra region of NSW – a social enterprise that helps reduce waste and provides training and employment for young people and former refugees. Consider purchasing a pre-loved gift to help reduce your environmental impact. Drop into the bright purple shop on Princes Highway, Unanderra, NSW.
